WILSON NOW LEADS LIST OF CANDIDATES AT DEMOCRATIC MEET

MAN WHO HAS BEEN SECOND JUMPS INTO LEAD ON THIRTIETH BALLOT.

NEW YORK MAN ATTACKS BRYAN

STANCHFIELD CALLS COMMONER SAUCY NAMES, BUT VOTES FOR WILSON.

INDIANA, IOWA AND OTHER STATES FOR WILSON

Breaks and Switches on Part of Delegates Make Inroads in the Clark Forces and Wilson Is Making Steady Gains—Still Lacks Many Votes, However, and Outcome Is Doubtful.

BULLETIN—4:45

Convention Hall, Baltimore—Special—The thirty-third ballot gave Gark one more than the previous one. Wilson stood still and there was no great chanke in the others standing.

BULLETIN.

Convention Hall, Baltimore, Mr., July 1—Special to Telegraph—On the 32nd ballot Wilson was still heading the list in the race for the democratic nomination and was increasing his lead at every roll call over Clark, and the effect was particularly noticeable on the recent ballots, for Wilson was making inroads on Clark's forces.

The 32nd ballot stood:

Wilson	477½
Clark	446½
Underwood	119½
Foss	26
Harmon	14
Kern	2

31st Ballot.

Wilson	475½
Clark	446½
Underwood	116½
Foss	30
Harmon	17
Kern	2

Wilson Leads.

Convention Hall, Baltimore, Md., July 1—Special to Telegraph—When the 30th ballot in the democratic convention had been taken it was evident that there had been a switch of considerable proportions and that the change favored Woodrow Wilson to the extent of placing him at the head of the list. The Iowa delegation made the change.

The 30th ballot stood:

Wilson	460
Clark	455
Underwood	121½
Foss	30
Harmon	19
Kern	2

Convention Hall, Baltimore, Md., July 1—Special to Telegraph—Gov. Wilson made a decided gain this afternoon when on the 28th ballot the Indiana delegation switched from Gov. Marshall, giving Wilson 29 and Kern 1 of their votes. The change brought Wilson within 31 votes of Speaker Clark.

The convention was called to order at 11:05 a. m., following a long conference of the leaders this morning, which brought absolutely no results, and caused them to state, before the convention was called to order, that there was no prospect of a nomination today.

Bryan Given Ovation

Shortly after the gavel fell this morning Bryan entered the hall and he was given a wild demonstration.

Soon after convening the 27th ballot was ordered taken and when New York was reached the vote of that state was challenged. A poll of the delegation was ordered and Stanchfield, who was a former candidate for governor, asked and secured unanimous consent to explain his vote. He attacked Bryan for his attack on the New York delegation and called the Peerless Leader a "money-hunting, publicity-hunting marplot from Nebraska." He said that no candidate who is banded with Bryan can carry New York state by half a million and added that Bryan should be expelled from the convention because of his writing for pay in favor of Roosevelt. He continued by declaring that Bryan has never intended to support the candidate of the convention unless that candidate was for Bryan but concluded by voting for Wilson.

New York for Clark.

The poll of the New York delegation was concluded and stood:

Clark	78
Wilson	9
Underwood	2
McAdoo	1

Lieutenant Governor Conway and Judge O'Gorman were among those who voted for Wilson, but under the unit rule the entire vote of New York goes to Clark.

27th Ballot.

The 27th ballot was then completed, showing:

Clark	469
Wilson	405½
Underwood	112
Foss	38
Marshall	30
Harmon	29
Bryan	1
Absent	21½

Tickets Extended.

Before the 28th ballot was taken it was announced that at the request of the convention officials the Southern Railway company had extended the return limit on tickets to July 10. And then came the big surprise, when on the ballot Indiana switched, giving Wilson 29 of its votes. The result of the 28th ballot was:

Clark	468½
Wilson	437½
Underwood	112½
Foss	38
Harmon	29
Kern	1
Bryan	1

Little Change on 29th.

The 29th ballot showed but little change, the figures being:

Clark	468½
Wilson	436
Underwood	112
Foss	38
Harmon	29
Kern	4

JOHN FORSYTH IS NO MORE

AGED AND RESPECTED GENTLEMAN GOES TO HIS REWARD — DIED IN SYCAMORE.

Sycamore July 1—Special to Telegraph—John Forsyth, a well known and highly respected gentleman who was well known in Dixon, died in Sycamore at the home of his stepson, Frank Stevens, on Saturday at 9:30 a. m., of repeated hemorrhages of the throat.

Mr. Forsyth was 75 years of age. He and his wife had recently returned from his home in Pasadena, Cal., to visit his daughter, Mrs. Isaac Evans of Milledgeville, and Mrs. Forsyth's son, Frank Stevens, of Sycamore.

Mr. and Mrs. Forsyth visited several days in Dixon but a few weeks ago.

The funeral will be held in Lanark where Mr. Forsyth first settled in 1850. The date of the funeral is Tuesday afternoon.

THEODORE A. BELL

Among the prominent figures at the Baltimore convention was Theodore A. Bell of California. He had the honor of seconding the nomination of Judge Parker for chairman and took an active part in the subsequent proceedings.

LIGHTNING STRUCK IN SEVERAL PLACES

THE PEACOCK, HEY AND DRYNAN HOMES INTERCEPT BOLTS.

COW WAS KILLED ON PRINDIVILLE FARM

Shaft From Above Destroys Animal —Lightning Damaged Sandusky Plant Office Roof—Rain and Hail Did Harm to Crops in Some Districts and Other Parts Were Left Dry.

Northern Illinois, at least many sections of it in this vicinity, was visited by a severe wind and hail storm yesterday afternoon, but fortunately the worst of the storm missed Dixon, reports from Whiteside county and the territory north of this city indicating much greater severity than was evidenced here.

Lightning Struck Homes.

However, the lightning struck in several places in this vicinity, but in none of the cases was the damage great. The Frank Peacock residence on North Galena avenue was struck by a cold bolt, the ridge board and cornice being torn from the roof. The office at the Sandusky-Portland cement works east of this city was also struck, the slate roof being badly damaged. Several workmen in the machine room, which is the first building east of the office felt the effects of the bolt, but fortunately no one was hurt.

Wind and Hail.

West of this city the storm was accompanied by high wind and hail, the result being broken trees, and some damage to the corn and other grain.

Growing crops around Nelson are reported to be somewhat damaged.

A cow was killed by the lightning on the Prindaville farm north of this city.

A bolt of lightning struck the Charles Hey home north of Dixon and demolished the brick chimney.

The Robert Drynan home at Gap Grove was also struck, but no serious damage resulted.

Storm Was Local.

The storm skipped about this section of the country, fairly swamping some sections with a long continued deluge of rain, while in other parts but a few miles distant no rain fell.

Dixon got a good, heavy rain, which lasted about half an hour, but at Grand Detour there was barely enough sprinkle to lay the dust.

Toward Sterling, on the south side of the river, the rain and hail came down with such force as to almost flatten out the growing crops, and on the north side of the river, on the Sterling road, there were places where the ground was slightly shaded with corn leaves which surely do not afford much protection in their present state, left perfectly dry.

Many of the agriculturists were greatly disappointed, for they claim that what is needed is a good, soaking rain.

BABY DAUGHTER BORN.

Mr. and Mrs. Penrose of Keokuk, Iowa, are the proud parents of a ten-pound baby girl. Mrs. Penrose was formerly Miss Nellie McCoy of this city.

CROSS ARMS REMOVED.

The linemen of the Dixon Home Telephone company this morning completed the removal of all of the cross arms from the old poles of the Central Union company, 1088 arms being taken down in five and a half days, and as soon as the messenger wire—the steel cable on which the 'phone cables were strung—is taken down the poles will be razed.

MAYOR BRINTON RETURNS

Mayor W. B. Brinton has returned from Baltimore, where he attended the democrattic national convention. He will give no statement for publication as to his views of the developments there.

HUNDREDS DIE IN TERRIFIC STORM

Tornado Sweeps Regina, Capital of Saskatchewan, and Causes Ruin.

PROPERTY LOSS $10,000,000

Large Strip of Business District Is Completely Wiped Out—200 Residences Are Demolished—Hospitals Filled.

Winnipeg, Manitoba, July 1.—Leaving bodies in its wake estimated to number anywhere between 100 and 400, a tornado tore through Regina, the capital of Saskatchewan, devastating a large strip of the business district, demolishing three churches and a dozen or more business houses. The telephone exchange was razed, with a dozen or so girls among the debris. The power plant shared the same fate, and to make the work of rescue more difficult the city is in darkness.

Destroys 200 Residences.

Before entering the city from the southeast the storm destroyed the new capitol buildings, then it cleaned up some 200 or more private residences. Then six grain elevators were blown across the tracks, completely blocking traffic. Then the storm passed away to the northeast. Chaos reigns to-night and five thousand troops are being rushed to the scene from Sewel camp.

Already pillaging has commenced and the mayor has issued orders to shoot any one on sight seen pillaging or robbing the dead.

Details are very meager from Regina, and every dispatch gives a different estimate of the dead.

Hospitals Are Filled.

Three churches were destroyed and hundreds of people are injured. All hospitals are filled and stores are being turned into morgues and temporary hospitals. Surrounding cities and towns are sending doctors and nurses. All direct communication with Regina is cut off and messages being received here are dispatched from neighboring towns. The three telegraph offices are wrecked, as well as the railroad stations.

Loss Will Reach $10,000,000.

The losses will reach $10,000,000. Seventy-five bodies had been recovered up to 10 p. m.

Several villages to the northeast were also struck.

Several fires broke out in Regina after the tornado and two of them attained dangerous proportions, but heroic work on the part of the firemen and volunteers saved the situation.

Later scenes in the darkened city are almost undescribable. Railway yards, stores, etc., are being ransacked for lamps. The Imperial Oil company is giving away oil. Hotels and surviving churches have been turned into temporary hospitals and morgues. The bodies of seven telephone girls have been taken from the debris of the government telephone exchange.

Others Towns Damaged.

After devastating the richest portions of Regina, the cyclone traveled in an easterly direction, and after skirting several small towns, skirted through the outskirts of Quapelle, 33 miles to the east of Regina, and there did close upon half a million dollars' damage.

Six people are reported killed, and many injured. Five large grain elevators were demolished, as well as a number of wholesale blocks.

LOCAL HORSES WILL RACE AT LASALLE

ENTRY LISTS SHOW MANY ANIMALS FROM THIS VICINITY—TAYLOR OF MISSOURI IS A BIG FACTOR.

The entry lists of the LaSalle races, which commence Wednesday, have been received in Dixon and a number of horses are entered from this vicinity. The lists also show that W. B. Taylor of Sedalia, Mo., who is well known by the local horsemen, is going to be the star starter, as he has twenty entries. The horses entered from this vicinity are:

A. J. Pearse, Dixon—Kapper, Friday, 2:25 trot.

S. M. Cartwright, Oregon—Siddon, 2:22 trot Thursday; Siddon, 2:16 trot Friday; Sidlena, 2:22 trot Friday.

W. Burns, Oregon — Hydromel, 2:16 trot Friday.

H. Vaupel, Oregon—Citator, 2:22 trot, Thursday.

Al Crawford, Franklin Grove — Polanto, 2:35 trot Wednesday.

DEMOCRATS STILL BALLOTING; END NOT IN VIEW

Start Twenty-Seventh Ballot for Presidential Nominee After Convention Is Called to Order Today.

CLARK LOSES GROUND

Speaker Rushes to Baltimore to Confront Bryan But Convention Adjourns Ere He Arrives.

COMMONER STARTS TROUBLE

Nebraskan Refuses to Vote for Anyone Aided by Tammany—Wilson Gains and Missourian Loses—Forces of Both Labor Sunday to Improve Chances—Chances That Deadlock Will Be Broken Appear Slim at This Time—Saturday's Session of Big Meet Teemed With Sensation.

Baltimore, Md., July 1.—Bryan has given out a 2,000 word statement suggesting five compromise candidates to pick from as a solution of the deadlock. They are: Senator Kern, Indiana; Senator-Elect Ollie James, Kentucky; Senator O'Gorman, New York; Senator Culberson, Texas and Senator Rayner of Maryland. He reads Congressman Underwood out of the race to block the proposed Wilson-Underwood ticket.

Convention Hall, Baltimore, Md.—July 1.—The Democratic national convention was called to order at noon and at once plunged into a roll call on the twenty-seventh ballot for the presidential nominee.

With Clark steadily losing and Wilson slowly gaining the Saturday night session of the convention, still deadlocked after the twenty-seventh ballot, adjourned shortly after 11 o'clock to noon today.

Adjournment was moved by Congressman Palmer of Pennsylvania, a Wilson adherent, and seconded by Senator Stone of Missouri, one of Clark's leaders.

The session ended half an hour before Speaker Clark reached Baltimore from Washington. The speaker hurried here in response to the urgent request of Fred T. Dubois and George Fred Williams, who represented that the Missourian's candidacy had suffered by reason of an "attack on his honor" made by William Jennings Bryan.

Bitter Against Bryan.

There is a great deal of bitterness against Mr. Bryan among the Clark adherents. They feel that the Nebraskan had no right to attempt to place a Morgan-Belmont-Ryan brand on the speaker just because the New York delegation gave its support to him.

They argued that the speaker could not wipe out the injury without attacking Mr. Bryan in the forum where Mr. Bryan's assault was delivered.

Mr. Williams and former Senator Dubois were said to have ignored the advice of their associates and to have told Mr. Clark that his only chance of redress lay in an immediate confrontal of Mr. Bryan and the convention.

They urged him to take the first train. The chances are that Mr. Clark would have reached the convention hall in time to make a dramatic entrance had not the plans of Williams and Dubois become known.

It was the plan to adjourn shortly before midnight, and the Clark forces, not wanting another ballot after the twenty-sixth, had entered upon a counter Wilson demonstration.

Trouble in Clark Camp?

Back of Mr. Clark's coming was a rumor of disruption in his camp. Senator Stone, former Governor Francis, and the main body of the Missouri delegation were said to be opposed to the speaker making any appeal to the convention, as they believed the convention would misinterpret Clark's appearance on the platform.

Mr. Bryan at the afternoon session had attacked Clark nd said he would vote for no man willing to accept nomination at the hands of Murphy of Tammany hall. It was the plan of Mr. Clark to appear before the convention and make answer. In this way his managers hoped to bolster the falling vote.

The ballots ran from the thirteenth to the twenty-sixth. Wilson began at 356½ and ended at 407½, a net gain during the day of 51 votes. Speaker Clark began at 554½ and fell to 463½, a loss of 91 votes.

MANUEL QUEZON

Manuel Quezon was the delegate in the Democratic national convention who had the longest mileage record. He represented the Philippine Islands.

LOCAL JEWELER SELLS HIS STORE

H. C. DIXON HAS DISPOSED OF STORE SITE WHICH WILL BE OCCUPIED BY A FINE, UP-TO-DATE MARKET.

H. C. Dixon, the jeweler, Saturday sold his store site and fixtures to Henry Abt of Chicago who will, as soon as Mr. Dixon disposes of his jewelry stock, install a modern Chicago market in the room. Mr. Abt, wh has had many years' experience in the meat business, announces that his establishment will be as up-to-date as it is possible to make it, and he will handle the very best of every thing in his line.

Mr. Dixon is preparing to dispose of his jewelry stock at auction, following which he will devote his time to the manufacture of leather fobs and chains, in which he has acquired a big wholesale trade, and he will also re-enter the jewelry auction field, in which he has had consistent success.

DEFENDANTS WILL FIGHT THE CASE

THOSE CHARGED WITH KEEPING DISORDERLY HOUSES TO ATTEMPT TO PROVE THEIR INNOCENCE.

The five defendants in the cases brought by the city for the alleged keeping of disorderly houses, who were arrested in Friday night's raid, have decided to fight the case, and will go before Justice Hanneken tomorrow morning with this in view. The city authorities, however, have no doubt of the completeness of their evidence and ability to secure convictions.

BLOWN UP BY SODA TANK.

Clinton, Ia., July 1—Special to the Telegraph—While filling a large soda water tank in an ice cream parlor here Sunday afternoon an Italian was blown to atoms when the tank, which was supposed to withstand a pressure of 800 pounds, blew up.

DROWNING AT ALBANY.

Sterling, July 1—Special to Telegraph—Daniel Evers, a 19 year old Clinton boy, who with two companions, Fred and Arthur Peterson, was fishing Sunday, was drowned in the Mere Docia swamp yesterday afternoon.

The warm weather tempted the lads to go in swimming and Evers was taken with a cramp and sank to his death. His two friends made heroic attempts to rescue him and almost lost their own lives in the vain effort. The body was recovered at 6 o'clock last evening.

COUNCIL MEETS TONIGHT.

The regular meeting of the city council will be held this evening. The bills for the month of June will be allowed and ordered paid, which, as far as is known, is about all that will come before the commissioners.

DRILL TONIGHT.

Company G will meet for drill tonight.

BRYAN'S CHARGES CAUSES TROUBLE

Speaker Clark and Followers Highly Indignant at Nebraskan's Attitude.

'PROOF OR RETRACTION' ASKED

Effort at Compromise Among the Candidates for the Presidential Nomination Before the Convention Proves Fruitless.

Baltimore, July 1.—Mr. Bryan's refusal to vote for Speaker Clark so long as the Missourian had the support of the New York delegation and his charges in regard thereto caused a storm in the Clark ranks, and brought forth the following from Mr. Clark himself:

Clark Makes Demands.

"I demand exact justice from every Democrat, either in this convention or throughout the nation. With William Jennings Bryan and his charge made in the convention, the issue is proof or retraction. I shall expect him to meet that issue."

This is the challenge of Speaker Champ Clark to Mr. Bryan which Mr. Bryan is expected by many of his friends to meet in the convention today. "Speaker Clark feels," said his friends, "that Mr. Bryan has impeached his honor. He is determined that Mr. Bryan shall either make good his impeachment or stand before the convention and the country as a slanderer. If necessary, Speaker Clark is prepared to go before the convention and personally defend his good name, regardless of what effect such actions may have upon his chances of nomination."

Dubois Makes Answer.

Ex-Senator Dubois, Speaker Clark's campaign manager, made this answer to Mr. Bryan's charge:

"As the manager for Mr. Clark, I have the right to demand of Mr. Bryan that he either cease uttering these falsehoods or bring forward some sort of proof. He should be able to stab his friend Clark to death without resorting to this kind of political trickery, which reflects on the character of men who have been his friends for years."

No Compromise Possible.

All efforts at compromise have failed. When the Democratic convention met today to take the twenty-seventh ballot there was little chance of any definite result. As a result, stagnation instead of progress faces the party leaders. Norman E. Mack, chairman of the national Democratic committee, said:

"After a conference called by me of the managers and friends of the candidates, I regret to say that no agreement could be reached, save one, to resume this hopeless contest, taking it up from the point where it rested after Saturday night's adjournment. I can see no prospect of a compromise and it looks to me as if the deadlock will continue indefinitely."

In the conference, which lasted for seven unprofitable hours, were the managers of Speaker Clark, Governors Wilson, Harmon and Marshall, and Representative Underwood. Every one of them announced he would stick to his favorite to the end and hold all his people with him.

May Adjourn Convention.

After a conference with Mr. Bryan, Congressman Henry of Texas and former Mayor Brown of Lincoln, Neb., more than intimated that if the deadlock continues indefinitely a resolution will be offered adjourning the convention for thirty days to enable the voters to express their preference at a presidential primary. In that event, it was said Mr. Bryan might be an avowed candidate for fourth time for a presidential nomination.

"The advisability of the submission of such a resolution is uncertain," said Mayor Brown. "Whether it will be submitted may depend on how long the deadlock prevails."

WEATHER FORECAST

The weather for Illinois: Generally fair today and tomorrow; not much change in temperature; moderate east and south winds.

FIRE ALARM YESTERDAY.

The fire department was called to the Frank Peacock home yesterday afternoon when that residence was struck by lightning, but the firefighters were not needed, as the bolt was a cold one and no conflagration resulted.

MEETING POSTPONED.

There will be no meeting of the teachers' training class at the Y. M. C. A. this evening because of the absence of Mr. Bailey, the teacher.

Social Happenings

BIRTHDAY HOROSCOPES.
MAY 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25

Have great possibilities and nature has lavished many gifts upon you; are a thinker, but often lack continuity of thought, purpose and affection. Poverty grinds you sadly, and unless you have enough to gratify your desires can be dismally unhappy. If a woman, are apt to be nervous and hysterical unless overcome in early life; if a man, careless in manner.

HOW BASEBALLS ARE MADE.

In the center o fthe standard baseball, las used by professional players, there is a globe of compressed cork covered with rubber. This globe is about an inch in diameter and around it are wound a few layers of coarse twine. It is then sent to the winding room, where machines first wind on thick four-ply yarn. At frequent intervals the ball is soaked in a cement solution and put aside to dry. Many different workers have to do with the winding of a ball. Each workman tests it for size and weight before he passes it along. The machine insures tight and even winding and there are different machines for different sizes of yarn. These machines are operated in secret in a locked room. When the ball has been wound to the proper size with blue and white yarn and has been dipper in the solution, it is wound finally with smaller yarn. Thus the firm, rough center is overlaid with finer and finer material until at last it is smooth and perfect, ready for the cover. The best horsehide obtainable is used for covers. The pieces are cut by hand and dampened and stretched. The ball is put into clamps and the cover sewed on on with cotton thread, which has greater frictional strength than linen or silk. Each ball is sewed by hand and then put into a machine that irons down seams. The polishing is done by still another machine. Then, after being stamped and wrapped the ball is ready for the market. A ball weighs fie ounces and is nine inches in circumference. In the course of manufacture it is weighed and measured five times.—Harper's Weekly.

ALLOW REMOVAL OF CONSERVATOR

JOHN M. KRUG OF ASHTON HAS RECOVERED FROM DEPLORABLE ACCIDENT IN WHICH HIS WIFE WAS KILLED.

A jury in the county court this afternoon allowed the petition to remove the conservator of John M. Krug of Bradford. Following the tragic accident at the Ashton crossing last December, when the buggy in which Mr. and Mrs. Krug were driving was struck by a Northwestern train, killing Mrs. Krug and seriously injuring the man, Mr. Krug was forced to go away for treatment and his brother was appointed conservator of his estate pending his recovery. He has now fully recovered and consequently today's action was taken.

Talk about the republican party being split up th back and mashed out by the steam roller! Look at tne dope from Washington.

Even the appropriations for carrying on the government work are tied up because so many of the congressmen are at the convention, thus leaving the house without a working majority.

And not a word from the mayor.

In one's idle moments one can not help wondering when all of those paving improvements are going to start.

And quickly on the heels of that inspiration—by the way, does an inspiration have heels?—comes that sweetly solemn thought that a long, long time ago the city council started talking about the waterworks.

And there were also, in this bright city of ours, a lot of people who believed the consolidation of the two telephone exchanges would improve the service.

$80.85 interest on the city's money for the month of May. Surely he police and firemen will not have to be ashamed to take that increase in salary.

Very Definite.

Harry Gerdes, the happy, versatile, accommodating and genial baggage smasher at the Northwestern passenger station, turned loose a new one yesterday when, in reply to a question asked by a woman who was waiting for the train, he gave her an answer which she probably hasn't deciphered yet.

The lady who, for over an hour, had exhibited signs of great restlessness, finally approached Harry and the following conversation ensued:

Lady—Can you tell me, please, how late the eastbound passenger is?

Harry—About an hour, ma'am.

(Twenty minutes are supposed to elapse between acts).

Lady (returning)—Pardon me again, but will you tell me what makes the train so late?

Mr. Gerdes—Well, it's like this. The train ahead is behind and this train was behind before besides.

SECOND POST PUZZLE

Vice-Presidential Timber Still an Unknown Problem.

Political Trainers at Baltimore Are Looking Over Field But No Favorite Yet Is Named.

Baltimore, Md., July 1.—With the candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination on the home stretch, the political trainers are grooming the field of entries for the vice-presidential and closing race of the convention program.

In the present situation there is no favorite for second place on the ticket. Uncertain as the presidential nomination is at the moment, that for vice-president is impossible even of a good guess. All depends on the presidential nominee.

Among the most conspicuous of the vice-presidential possibilities at this time are Governor Burke of North Dakota, who was in the presidential contest until when he withdrew his name by telegraph to the convention; Representative William Sulzer of New York, chairman of the house committee on foreign affairs; Mayor Newton Baker of Cleveland; Senator O'Gorman of New York, Representative William Redfield of New York, Representative H. Preston of Baltimore, Representative Robert L. Henry of Texas, and many others.

Governor Marshall of Indiana, who still is in the presidential race with the support of Indiana's 30 votes, is being much discussed as a vice-presidential possibility.

The name of Representative Oscar W. Underwood, majority leader of the house, and still in the race for the presidential nomination, is also much talked of in case the first place on the ticket does not fall to his lot. His friends, still insisting that he is in a strategic position as to the presidential nomination, are not thinking of second place for him, but his name is heard in many quarters as the most available running mate for Clark, Wilson, Bryan or Kern, or whoever may be named.

CLEAR DEEP MYSTERY

Identity of Woman's Headless Body Revealed.

Frenchwoman Had Eloped to America With Man Under Arrest for Her Alleged Murder.

Providence, R. I., July 1.—Turning death-white and almost falling in a faint, Henry Deslouvre admitted that the headless body of the woman before him in the tomb of a local cemetery was that of his companion, Angele Parmantier Delmar, a beautiful young woman with whom he eloped from France.

The body was found in the Blackstone river several days ago and had furnished a complete mystery when a bundle of stained clothes was discovered floating on the surface. Friends of the slain woman, for whose sudden disappearance they could not account, declared they had seen her wear the clothes. They were then shown to Deslouvre at police headquarters and he, too, identified them. The man was then taken to the tomb, where he identified the body. He denied that he killed the woman, but the police say he will confess.

Angele Parmantier, who was the wife of Camille Delmar of Rubaix, France, eloped to America with Deslouvre more than a year ago, going to Woonsocket, where they both worked in a woolen mill.

The woman's great beauty attracted the attention of other men and Deslouvre is said to have been madly jealous.

BIG STRIKE THREATENS

Serious Longshoremen's Walkout Promised for Some Time Today.

New York, July 1.—What threatens to become a serious longshoremen's strike will begin today, according to plans that were arranged last night by the National Transportation Federation of America. A meeting was held at which about 2,000 strikers were present, and after considerable discussion it was decided to call out all the longshoremen and teamsters who work for the coastwise lines. It was declared also that if the situation is not cleared up shortly the American Trans-Atlantic line will be tied up.

Witnesses Tell House Committee Jurist Was Too Fond of Drink.

Seattle, July 1.—Personal habits of Cornelius Hanford, United States district judge, were inquired into by the house of representatives subjudiciary committee here. Two witnesses testified that they had seen Judge Hanford apparently under the influence of liquor.

The first of these witnesses, A. M. Oleson, a detective, testified that he had shadowed continuously for two weeks, following him from the time he left his home in the morning until he returned at night.

Twenty-Seventh Ballot On.

With the twenty-seventh ballot now in progress there appears to be small hope that it will be materially different from any of its 26 predecessors which have been taken since the first call of the states.

Although it is against all political precedent for a national convention to sit on Sunday, yesterday nevertheless was a day of important conferences among the party leaders and a day of strenuous hard work for the different campaign managers and their lieutenants.

Breaks to Governor Wilson came from many different delegations as the twenty-sixth ballot closed.

A Wilson demonstration was precipitated in the convention just before adjournment, when the Maryland delegation, which had stood solid for Clark from the first, demanded a poll, indicating a possible split.

This came at the end of the twenty-sixth ballot, and the Wilson people gave vent to their enthusiasm for 15 minutes before the chairman made any effort to check them. The outburst was quelled after 23 minutes of marching and cheering.

Fight Narrowly Averted.

The New Jersey and the Missouri delegations seated across the center aisle from each other began a wordy quarrel. One of the Missouri delegates, red of face and dripping with perspiration, climbed on his chair and with angry gestures, made an impassioned speech to the hooting crowd.

The picture of Wilson, 15 feet high, was hoisted to the gallery. Cheers greeted it. The Clark forces, not to be outdone, forced the big California Clark banner up to the platform.

A fight was narrowly averted as the officers of the convention forced it back down the steps. Miss Gladys Hogan of Baltimore seized the California banner and tried to lead the demonstration, but without success.

The great bulk of the Massachusetts delegation deserted Clark during the night and started a Foss boom. It created little excitement.

Wilson People Enthusiastic.

The Wilson forces are enthusiastic and are claiming they ultimately will win.

Kansas was the first important state to desert Clark as a whole for Wilson. The sentiment in that delegation had favored Wilson from the beginning, but the Wilson contingent was not able to get a two-thirds vote before. Then, under state convention instructions, the entire 20 Kansas votes went into his column.

Soon after the convention adjourned.

Bryan Delivers Thunderbolt.

The routine of balloting in the afternoon was interrupted during the fourteenth roll call by William Jennings Bryan, who changed his vote from Champ Clark to Woodrow Wilson because the new York delegation swung to Clark.

Bryan in a tempest of denunciation declared he would support no one who received the 90 New York votes controlled by Murphy and the Ryan-Belmont forces.

With the progressives exultantly cheering and the conservatives angrily jeering him, Bryan sought, and, after much confusion, obtained, the privilege of explaining his proposed change of vote.

"No, no; vote," yelled the anti-Bryan men.

Unanimous Consent Granted.

Finally when Senator Stone of Missouri asked unanimous consent it was granted. Bryan took the platform and said he wished to explain his vote, because his advice had not been followed in his delegation. This was greeted with a storm of derisive cries from the Clark men. Asserting that he spoke for progressives in the hall and many more outside, the Nebraskan read a statement which he said he had prepared for such a crisis.

He called attention to his resolution adopted by the convention which thereby pledged itself not to nominate a candidate dominated by Ryan, Morgan or Belmont or their allies. He said the only way to make that pledge effective was to nominate a man not allied with these interests.

Amid mingled shouts of approval and derision, he asserted that the vote of the New York delegation represents neither intelligence nor patriotism, but only the will of one man, Charles F. Murphy, and that Murphy represents "the influences that dominated the Republican convention at Chicago," and are trying to dominate this convention."

Sees Betrayal of People.

The Nebraskan said the party would not merit the confidence of the people if it should nominate a candidate "under conditions that will allow these interests to say to our candidate: 'Remember, now, thy creator.'" For that reason, he said, the Nebraska delegation would refuse to accept a nominee "at the hands of Murphy."

Malvina Moves

Malvina sighed and arose from her typewriter. "I might have known that inspiration for love stories would flee from mountain boarding houses," she told herself as she swept a hand across her wide, intelligent eyes.

From the room below which was called parlor came the refrain of "Oh, You Beautiful Dodd;" then, "Every Little Movement." The tone from the piano itself was like the jangle of many discordant tins, but the music—

Malvina stopped her ears, then, with quick movements slipped into her white jersey and out into the cool mountain air. Her nerves were in dire need of calm and quiet.

She walked on with lightened heart. The pungent odor of balsam and the cool breezes from the lake soothed her.

She approached a small camp with eager steps. How had this jewel in the forest escaped her before?

The young author did not stop to realize that this was her first venture into the depths of the woods. And with the writer's longing for seclusion Malvina pictured herself ensconsed in that picturesque camp. She felt that all of her budding plot would burst into full bloom and that her name would appear in many of the magazines. Even under the trying position of living in boarding houses Malvina's work had found favor with two or three editors. James Blake of the Comet had been especially attracted to her stories. She hoped, before long, to meet him. He had been a great help to her.

The girl's imaginings had brought her to the door of the camp. Her eyes opened wide in surprise. The place was open at doors and windows and was apparently without an inhabitant. Malvina's heart quickened its beat. Perhaps she could run away from the boarding house with her little typewriter and work here in this wonder house?

Inside all was rough, but not without a sense of the artistic. Malvina came to the quick conclusion that a man who was fond of hunting owned the camp and that he was there only during the hunting season.

With joyous feet she hurried back to the boarding house and from there to the village store. It was imperative to Malvina that when writing she have pink flowered curtains and a pink kimono. The latter she already had. The pink curtains which she would tack up in the camp must be purchased at the one village store.

It was the following day before she arrived at the little house. She was laden with her typewriter, her pink curtains, her tea equipment and her pink kimono.

Malvina was tired but happy when she threw herself down on the wide couch for a moment's rest. The camp had been turned into a bower of pink and odd dishes of wild flowers were scattered about.

Outside(at the edge of the forest, a big man swung along with an old handbag in one hand and his fishing paraphernalia in the other.

When he drew near an indefinable something stirred within him. Never before, during the many summers he had spent in the mountains, had his camp seemed so desirous.

Blake quickened his pace and sprang up to the veranda. He stopped before he had entered, held by the glimmer of pink at the windows.

Instinctively Blake removed his soft hat before going inside. He caught a quick breath and stood as if suddenly lost to his surroundings.

By all the laws of propriety Blake should have turned and left his own camp. But he could not move with the sight of Malvina pictured before him. She was in a sound sleep and her cheeks were flushed. Her glorious hair was a mass of spun copper that trailed over the cushion.

The power of his eyes disturbed her and she stirred. Blake, spellbound, watched the heavy lashes flutter, then rise slowly up to reveal her eyes.

Blake then came to his senses and turned toward the door. He waited outside on the veranda until she should come. He felt that she would follow immediately.

Malvina did. "I suppose you are the hunter who invited wayfarers into your camp?" she asked with a half smile.

"And you are the wayfarer?" Blake returned because he could think of nothing else for the moment.

"I supposed the hunting season did not begin until later." Malvina smiled half wistfully.

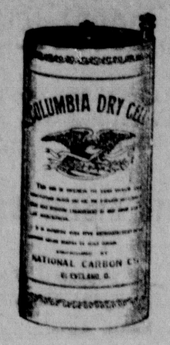

"It does not. But fishing suits me almost as well, and since the Comet needs me in the fall——"

"And you need your own camp now," Malvina interrupted. 'It is time for me to depart."

"Not at all—I intend to stay at a boarding place nearby—where I shall not have to bother even with my own meager fare."

But Malvina would not remain; she felt that she must go, and since Blake had insisted that he preferred to stay at the boarding place he must needs go whether or not he liked.

Thus, the two found themselves at the table of the mountain boarding house and it was in that once despised parlor that—not a month later—Malvina promised to marry James Blake, editor.

FIFTY YEARS IN PRISON.

Old Englishman Who Had Spent Three-Fourths of His Life Behind the Bars.

An extraordinary spectacle was presented in the odck at the London sessions the other day—a gray haired, bearded man 68 years of age who had spent three parts of his life — half a century—in prison for thefts which today would call forth a trifling sentence. He was a laborer named George Lawrence, and was found uilty of being an habitual criminal. He also plead guilty of having stolen a coat and other articles from an office in Chelsea. The judge commented on some of the man's sentences—five years for stealing coats and three terms of ten years for stealing forks, a box and an overcoat respectively—said that for any one of the offenses he would nowadays probably receive three months' imprisonment. It was an echo of the brutal system of years ago. "In all I have served nearly 50 years in prison," said the old convict, "and I don't suppose the things I stole were worth 20 pounds altogether. I have never had a chance in my life." The judge at first passed sentence of three years' penal servitude for the theft and five years' preventive detention, saying it was the minimum the law allowed in such a case, but later he decided that the offense was one in which he could, having regard to the past treatment of the prisoner, pass a sentence of 12 months' hard labor, thus avoiding the sentence of private detention. When he heard the altered sentence the old man, bringing his hand up to a military salute, exclaimed in tones of gratitude, "I will endeavor to make it my very last sir."

AN ABSENT-MINDED HUSBAND

Friends of Howard Johnson, who is one of the original dyed-in-the-wool Teddy fans, are having a great deal of fun at his expense, principally because Howard got so wrought up over the convention in Chicago recently, which he attended, that he came clear home to Dixon, entirely forgetting his wife, who had gone to Chicago, and a dinner engagement they had. A long distance telephone call to this city informed the anxious wife that Howard was safe by his own fireside, and the threatened search by the Chicago police was called off. Now the question is, will Howard forget to vote if Teddy does run?

INVITE GOL. ROOSEVELT

FORMER PRESIDENT ASKED TO SPEAK AT PRINCETON JULY FOURTH.

MESSAGE SENT TO OYSTER BAY

Favorable Reply Is Expected From Teddy—Lincoln Spoke Here Fifty-Six Years Ago.

Theodore Roosevelt, the greatest man in public life in America today, will be the crowning attraction of the Home Coming week at Princeton on July 4, if plans of the Bureau County Commercial club are successful. An invitation to speak here was wired to the former president at Oyster Bay Monday by E. P. Lovejoy, president of the club, and a reply is expected soon. The members of the program committee say they have strong hopes of landing the famous Teddy even though he is now in great demand all over the country. The only thing they figure that will prevent is the great demand for him that is coming from all parts of the country. Whether or not he comes, the developments show that Teddy is highly regarded by the Bureau county organization, which is non-political.

The strongest reason for presuming that Roosevelt will accept lies in the fact that 56 years ago Abraham Lincoln delivered a 4th of July address to a multitude of people in Bryant's Grove at Princeton under the same political conditions as exist today. Roosevelt is now hailed all over the country as the modern Lincoln because of his great fight for political freedom and for the emancipation of politics from boss control that may culminate in the formation of a new party out of the progressive element in the republican ranks and it is considered fitting that as Illinois is to be the battle ground of the preisdential campaign this fall, Roosevelt should make his key-note speech from Princeton, where Lincoln began his great fight more than half a century ago.

The Commercial club has many reasons to believe that Col. Roosevelt entertains a warm regard for Princeton and Bureau county and will come if possible because of the many admirers he has here. In the recent primary election Roosevelt was a three to one choice over Wm. Taft in the county and Princeton itself was a hot-bed of Roosevelt sentiment.

In case Roosevelt decides to come on the 4th it is estimated that he draw from 40,000 to 50,000 people. Bureau county and in fact the whole of Illinois regard Roosevelt as the political hero of the age and his appearance here will be awaited eagerly.

The invitation sent to Col. Roosevelt was followed by a second, Tuesday, urging him to come. The second telegram read:

To Theodore Roosevelt,
Oyster Bay, Mass.

Have received no reply to my wire of yesterday. On July 4th, 1856, Abraham Lincoln made a speech here. This is historic ground. The political conditions then and now are similar. Princeton wanted Abraaam Lincoln then. Princeton wants Theodore Roosevelt now

E. P. LOVEJOY,
President Bureau County Commercial Club.

JUMPS FROM AEROPLANE.

Rodman Law Leaps From Machine at Height of 3,000 Feet.

New York, June 30 — Rodman Law, who for about a year has been going about the country jumping off high buildings and bridges, added a new stunt to his repertoire when he jumped from an aeroplane in full flight at an altitude of 3,000 feet. He accomplished the feat without injury to himself and without interference to any appreciable extent with the manipulation of the aeroplane.

The man who was in charge of the machine as Harry Brown, a Boston youth who got his training with air machines in England. The flight and drop were made on the plains of Long Island about three miles from Hicksville.

HAS RESIGNED POSITION.

Miss Ada Hardesty has resigned her position as teacher in stenography at the Dixon college and has gone to Chicago. Her position is being taken by Will Bubber.

Arnie Lindquist of Sterling was in Dixon last evening.

WHO'S WHO—and Why

THE "FIRST LADY OF LONDON"

By the election of her husband to the important position of chairman of London county council, Lady Cheylesmore, an American woman, becomes in a sense the "First Lady of London." The county council, of course, is the real governing body of the greater city, and the position of chairman corresponds in a general way to that of mayor of a city like New York, the so-called lord mayor of London "ruling" over only the old city of London—about a square mile in area.

Furthermore, Lord Chaylesmore himself is half American. His mother was Charlotte Harman of New Orleans and he is a living example of the advantage of wedding the hustling, practical qualities of the American with the liberal conservative qualities of the best English aristocracy. Lady Cheylesmore, who was Elizabeth French, daughter of F. O. French of New York, has become one of the most popular and respected women in English society. She is tall and handsome, and possesses that dignity which is so highly valued in this country.

Although she has never entertained on a big scale, her affairs are popular and there is keen competition to be numbered among her guests. Her town house in Prince's Gate, fronts on the south side of Hyde Park, a couple of doors west of the London home of J. Pierpont Morgan, in which the American banker shelters his unrivalled collection of art treasures.

PAYS HOMAGE TO A SERVANT

On the eve of his departure for the land of the heather and thistle, the Laird of Skibo bade farewell to one of his servants who had been in the service for 23 years. The occasion was made a gala one in the servants' hall at the Fifth avenue mansion, New York, the Carnegie family participating in the function and being no small part of it.

Skibo castle will be minus its head house maid in the person of Miss Maggie Anderson. In giving her best years in service, Miss Anderson developed some of the thrift for which the iron master is famous, and announced some time since she was going to open a public house in Edinburgh. That is her home town, but the only living member of her family is a brother out in San Francisco. She planned to pay the brother a visit, and the laird presented her with a round trip ticket to the metropolis of the Pacific coast. This was not all he did. He presented her with a handsome gold watch and a life pension of $500 a year. In the servants' hall were gathered all the help of the big mansion at eight o'clock. The haughty Jeems of the upper hall condescended to lend his dignity to the occasion and beamed on simple Sandy from the stables. The house maid fraternized with the cook, the butler with the groom. It was a truly harmonious family gathering.

Mr. and Mrs. Carnegie and their daughter Margaret, still in her teens, and the idol of servants' hall, and Miss Whitfield, the sister of Mrs. Carnegie, were all present. The laird presented the watch to the blushing and a bit flustrated Maggie, and expressed the regrets of the family at her leaving.

SUGGESTED AS VICE-REINE

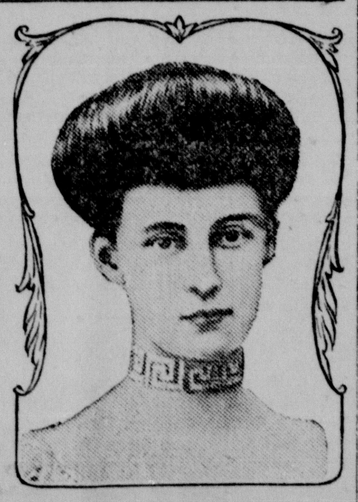

When the first Irish parliament since the dawning of the nineteenth century assembled in the "Old House at College Green," Dublin, where the eloquence of Grattan and Flood stirred the Europe of their time, an American woman may stand at the throne, listening to her titled husband reading the king's speech inaugurating home rule in Ireland. This great day, so soon to come, is the talk of town and country in the British isles.

The question that has rocked the politics of the three kingdoms to the foundations of political life has ceased to be political. Its social side is what now appeals most rapturously to volatile Ireland and gay, dashing, fun loving Dublin.

Two women are most prominently spoken of as the likeliest to lead the new regime as vice-reine of Ireland. The first is Consuela, duchess of Marlborough, the self separated mistress of Blenheim palace, which the English people gave to "Ian" Churchill for his victories in protection of the "low countries." The duchess would make a most dignified, queenly hostess. Only one circumstance seems to bar the way between her and the dream which she has cherished when the Marlborough marriage was made—her domestic estrangement. This, however, appears to be drawing to a welcome close.

Queen Mary has expressed her desire that the duke and duchess should forgive, forget, and begin all over again. And it is hinted that if the proud Consuela consents to be pacified, the vice regal coronet will grace her brow.

NEW QUEEN TO BRING GAIETY

Alexandrine, the new queen of Denmark, promises to delight her subjects. Queen Louise lived austerely, despite her great wealth (more than $15,000,000), and the French blood in her veins that come from the Bernadotte line to which she belonged. It is said of her that she never attended a theatrical performance or a ball. Queen Alexandrine is far more pleasure-loving, and the court, when the period of mourning has passed, may well be expected to take on a gaiety it has not shown for some years. The queen is a sister of the crown princess of Germany. Their mother is Grandduchess Anastasia, a shining light in society on the Riviera, whose liveliness and unconventionality sometimes make Emperor William nervous.

Though Queen Louise is rich in her own right, she is thrifty, and as she held the purse strings during her husband's reign, the Danish royal family maintains its reputation of being poverty stricken. Denmark can afford to pay her sovereign only about $250,000 a year, which is not enough to support royal state to compare with the other European monarchs, whose civil list (salaries) run into millions.

Many Americans are already among the intimates of Christian and Alexandrine. Mrs. Robert Goelet is an especial friend of the latter, and last summer when Mrs. Goelet visited Copenhagen on her yacht Nahma she was entertained extensively by the then crown princess.

The new king and queen follow the example of Frederick, whose admiration for the United States was so great that he read American newspapers daily and was a close student of American literature.

WOMAN HANGS BY WEDDING RING

Mrs. David Swanson of Princeton Is Injured in a Peculiar Accident.

Suspended from a rafter by her wedding ring, Mrs. David Swanson, residing on the Bryant farm south of Princeton hung in a haymow for nearly ten minutes until rescued by her husband. The finger containing the ring was badly lacerated and several stitches were required to sew up the wound. The ring had to be cut off.

Mrs. Swanson was in the hay moy hunting for eggs and as she was getting down from the loft, her ring caught on the track of a hay carrier and she was suspended by the tiny gold band until her husband, who heard her cries for help, arrived and released her.

BYRON MAN SUICIDES FRIDAY BY DROWNING

James Baker Takes Own Life By Walking Into Rock River Near Byron

Ogle County Reporter—Jas. Baker a laborer about fifty years of age, committeed suicide at Byron Friday evening by wading out into the Rock River and drowning himself. His body was recovered about ten o'clock the same night. Baker is said to be despondent for the past several months because of illness. He had threatened several times previous to take his own life. Last Wednesday he attempted suicide by drinking carbolic acid and was just in the act of drinking the poison when his daughter snatched the bottle from him. At that time he drank a small quantity of the acid but not enough to affect him seriously.

He was a widower and is survived by a son and a daughter residing at Byron and a daughter residing in Chicago.

Coroner J. C. Atkins, of Forreston held an inquest over the remains Saturday morning. The jury returned a verdict to the effect that the deceased had come to his death by drowning in the Rock river.

ALFALFA FOR HORSES.

Illinois Farmers' Institute: Ancient history informs us that the Romans fed alfalfa (Lucerne) to their horses. In the horse breeding districts of France alfalfa is a valued forage crop. In England, progressive farmers have grown and fed alfalfa to horses always.

Joseph E. Wing of Ohio says there is nothing so good for work horses as alfalfa. He needs less grain and has more life and spirit than when fed upon any other hay, yet even the working team can, on account of its richness, be fed too much.

In western Kansas farm horses have been wintered on a daily ration of 30 pounds of alfalfa hay and some stover and thin horses fattened on alfalfa hay and a little corn. It has been found that horses do not need a heavy ration of alfalfa hay. Fed with grain, probably 10 or 15 lbs. of it is equal to a manger full of other hay.

Alfalfa has a nutritive ratio of 1 to 4. An ordinary 1000 pound horse, if given all he will eat of it, will eat from 30 to 40 pounds in 24 hours. The alfalfa contains about 11 per cent of easily digested protein and the horse will take into his system nearly 4 1-2 pounds of protein where as about 2 1-2 pounds of digestible protein is all that an ordinary horse of 1000 pounds weight, when working, can utilte.

If a horse is allowed to eat such quantities half of it is wasted; moreover it is liable to injure him by making him soft and easily sweated when suuddenly put to work.

It has been rumored that feeding alfalfa to horses produces kidney trouble. The foundation of the rumor is the fact that when alfalfa is fed to a horse the first time it does stimulate its kidneys so that there is a noticeable increase in the amount of urine voided, but the symptoms disappear in a short time. If alfalfa is fed in foderation it is not likely it will affect him.

Heaves Disappear.

A prominent horse owner says that beofre alfalfa came into use on his farm there were nearly always one of more horses with heaves, but since alfalfa has been fed not one case of this disease has developed and that colic in his horses is a rare thing and would probably never occur again if the men did not occasionally feed injudiciously of corn or over-fed with alfalfa hay.

Alfalfa leaves and stems are free from the small hairs that cover red clover leaves and stems and which catch dust and irritate the bronchial passage of the horse; this is one reason that alfalfa is beter than clover for horses.

AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Dr. R. M. Crissman, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, has announced that he will not take his vacation until after the third Sunday in this month. Therefore there will be morning and evening services at his church until July 28 from which time until fall there will be but the morning services, for which the pulpit will be supplied.

MUSIC WAS EXCELLENT.

The music at the evening service at the Presbyterian church last evening was reported by all who heard it to be worthy of special mention. Miss Hitchcock sang Kuhn's "Zion" most effectively, a duet by Mesdames Sickels and Read was greatly enjoyed and the organ selections by Prof. Stoddard were also of merit.

AGE OF CIVILIZATION.

Scientists have figured it out that the valley of the Nile has remained in virtually its present condition for a million years, and that Egyptian civilization is anywhere from 5,000 to 500,000 years old.

Speaker Reed was once asked what he thought of a certain southern member of the house, who was constantly airing his views on every conceivable subject that came before that body.

"Why, he's all right," said Tom in his nasal way. "The only trouble with him is that he misapprehends his own relation to the solar universe."

Is not that true of all of us? Here we are, a million years since civilization overcame the savagery of the wildness, and we haven't settled the tariff question yet nor even right or wrong of the hobble skirt. And the solution of the big problem — the matter of making a world in which everybody shall have enough and nobody too much—seems to be as distant as that day when the first sunrise shimmered on the murky waters of the Nile.

We are little bats, beating our wings against the cage of the universe, bruising ourselves on the wall of things as they are, then passing away into forgetfulness with nothing much accomplished. And we have been on the job hundreds of thousands of years, they say.

OLDEST BELL ON CONTINENT.

Is the College Bell at McKendree College.

It is said that the McKendree college bell at Lebanon is the oldest on the continent. It was cast at Guadaloupe, Spain, was brought by the Jesuits to this country at an early period of American history and was swung in the turret of a church at Santa Fe, New Mexico, for over 100 years. It was sold to a Santa Fe merchant in the early 50's and then was brought to St. Louis and sold to a foundryman. A friend of McKindree finding it there, bought it and presented it to the college. The date and place of manufacture was imprinted on it when it was first brought to McKendree. It is a composite of silver and copper. It was re-cast into its present form after being presented to the college.

Miss Mildred Knight left today for a few days' visit with friends in Chicago.

THE CHINESE SITUATION.

The first step in the modern conquest of a nation is to get into debt. The Europeans are now warring on China by pressing loans, not merely on account of the national government, but also upon provinces, municipalities and individuals. Germany was the first to get busy; the others followed.

First the missionary, then merchant, then soldier, was Lord Salisbury's formulation for the subjugation of heathen people. But nowadays the banker comes second, and the merchant follows close on his heels.

How can you refuse your trade to the man who accommodates you by a generous loan in the hour of need? And how can you avoid turning over your security, even if it be your fatherland, when the creditor comes later with his collectors in the shape of an army and navy?

That is the way they figured it. Yet China has 400,000,000 people, and is deeply stirred by the modern spirit and it is possible that when Europe gets ready to take China over something quite unexpected may happen.

It is a little too early to put the great oriental power in a class with Egypt.

Out of a Clear Sky

"Maria said," related Borker, "that we wouldn't be able to keep her. That was the only trouble in my mind, too. She was perfect.

"I watched her removing the dinner dishes. Her movements were swift and accurate.

"I suggested that we pay her the highest wages, for the coffee had been perfect and the biscuits a delightful brown. Maria replied that that would be the best way in the world to lose her. 'The more you pay her,' she explained, 'the better she will dress, and so the greater will be the risk.'

"I was silenced. I sat at the table in a bitter mood. Here was a cook held dazzlingly before me for a moment, only to be snatched away when she had grown absolutely necessary. She was too pretty to last. I tried, however, to be optimistic.

"'Maria,' I suggested, 'perhaps she has had a disappointment. Perhaps all her hopes have been blighted and she will never love again! Or perhaps he died or something!'

"'No,' said Maria. She added: 'There are three or four young men on the premises.'

"'We'll look for apartments elsewhere,' I cried.

"'Why?' gasped Maria.

"'To escape the male quartet,' I explained.

"However, I came to the conclusion that flats and apartments would not do at all. What we wanted was a house with a yard; a big yard with a house away at the back. Maria agreed with me.

"Then we began to consider the suburbs, with a view of getting a place as secluded as possible wherewith to retire with our cook. But, like an inspiration, I suddenly hit upon the island! The very thing!

"The island is a very secluded place fifty miles out in Lake Superior. It is very difficult to approach on account of the shoals. If I took Maria and my delightful cook out there we could live bountifully on provisions taken from the mainland and the opportunity would be splendid for the working up of my treatise on moral philosophy.

"Maria said the plan was good. The cook was delighted with the novelty of it. The details were soon arranged.

"We had a delightful voyage and landed upon the island in safety, with our ample stock of provisions, all in good condition.

"'We are cut off from all communication by mail!' I chuckled to Maria. 'No young man can even write to her! So we need have no fear of a proposal by letter.'

"'It's a good thing there is no wireless station here,' mused Maria.

"'Isn't it!' I cried. 'I don't suppose there is any danger of telepathy or soul kissing!'

"'We shall have to take our chances,' sighed Maria.

"The first day for lunch we had chicken with cream gravy, browned biscuit and delicious coffee.

"I arose the next morning, happy as a lark. I met Maria and Gwendoline, the cook, strolling along the beach, full of interest in the aquatic animals and birds, especially the birds. The flight of the crane, of the gull and of the wild duck I pointed out to them and made exhaustive comparisons, which would enable them to distinguish each.

"'Oh! look, Mr. Borker!' cried Gwendoline, lifting her pretty arm pointing enthusiastically. 'What kind of a bird is that?'

"I hesitated: 'It is neither a duck nor a crane,' I decided. 'It's an airship!'

"We were delighted to behold for the first time an exhibition of man's conquest of the air. The airship floated around us, coming lower and lower. Presently a begoggled creature appeared and a voice called, 'Hello!'

"'Hello!' cried Maria and Gwendoline with one voice.

"The airship man was proceeding on his way when he sighted Gwendoline! The airship quivered, then it slowly descended to the ground.

"'Good morning,' said the man with the goggles.

"'I hope the air currents are propitious this morning,' said I.

"'Aren't you afraid to go up in the air like that?' cooed Gwendoline, admiringly.

"The aeronaut stepped out of his ship and removed his goggles. He was blond, blithe and handsome.

"He looked at Gwendoline and she looked at him.

"Maria turned to me and whispered sadly: 'We may as well pack up and go back home.'"—Chicago Daily News.

Best of All Physicians.

There is no physician like cheerful thought for dissipating the ills of the body; there is no comfort to compare with good will for dispersing the shadows of grief and sorrow. To live continually in thoughts of ill-will, cynicism, suspicion and envy, is to be confined in a self-made prison hole. But to think well of all, to be cheerful with all, to patiently learn to find the good in all—such unselfish thoughts are the very portals of heaven; and to dwell day by day in thoughts of peace toward every creature will bring abounding peace to the possessor.—James Allen.

The Misanthrope's Secret

To hear Uncle Joe tell it, Old Scrooge of the firm of Scrooge & Marley, was not in the running with Tom Torrence. Tom had farms and bank stock and township bonds and was just rolling in money. And Uncle Joe said Tom Torrence was too stingy to get married and that he was the closest man in a trade he had known since old Hec was a pup. But I know better.

For when I was a small, small boy, Tom Torrence bought my soul and thereafter I was his loyal slave unto his dying day. When that purchase was made Tom Torrence was a young bachelor with laughing blue eyes and a smile that made a small boy feel good all over. And he bought me in this wise:

It was the day I had graduated from pink "slips" into the dear glory of a plaid blouse suit. We were at the county fair and Tom Torrence came up and shook hands with father and mother, and said, "W'y, I ain't seen you for six years! Gee whiz! What's this y'u got, a girl or a boy?" And they all laughed and Tom says, says he, "Lemme take this youngster while you old folks trail around and see the display in the Agricultural Hall." And Tom took me bodily, and in the next hour he bought my soul.

Says he, "I got some money that I don't know what to do with, 'less I spend it on a small boy." And I said, "Have you enough money to buy a 'Shoofly' box? They got candy and breastpins and gold dollars in 'em. But they cost ten cents!" And Tom squinted his eyes and grinned and said, "It's my treat," and bought the 'Shoo-fly' box, and in it was candy and a brass breastpin, but no gold dollar.

Then Tom said, "Now we'll take in the show!" And we went in and saw the fat woman and the living skeleton and the man with the India rubber skin. And we saw a live alligator and three monkeys and a little couple that were called General and Mrs. Tom Thumb.

Then he said, "Le's go see the nigger minstrels. They sing and dance and double shuffle and pick the banjo. Ever hear a banjo?" I never had. "Is it something like a macordeum?" I asked.

"Like a ma-cordeum?" said Tom. "It's better—a heap better. But you watch out that it don't put the devil in your toes!"

I hung back. The devil was a real personage to me—a personage with horns and big tusks and a cloven foot and he sat on his long tail that had a stinger on the end.

"Aw, come on," said Tom. "I was just foolin'. I meant banjo music is so fine it makes you want to get up and dance."

"So we went in and heard the minstrels. They cracked jokes I could not understand, though Tom laughed at them. But they sang strange, weird melodies, war time and camp meeting melodies. To me, who had never heard chorus singing except the long meter tunes on Sundays when they had preaching in the schoolhouse, it was indescribly fascinating. And the banjos—the next day when I nailed a board for a handle to my toy drum and strung it with mother's best shoe strings, mother exclaimed, "For the land sakes!" and then sat down and laughed and said: "That's what comes of letting that boy trail around with Tom Torrence!"

There was a tent where tintypes were made. Only they called them "gems." "Want your picture took?" queried Tom. "Yes," I said, "I never had one took since I's a boy. I got one when I's a little girl and wore dressea."

Then Tom bought me grapes and peaches — ripe, rosy-cheeked, fine smelling peaches, full of juice and flavor. And he bought peanuts—the first I ever tasted. And he asked me what else I wanted and I said: "I never tasted bologna sausage. It looks mighty good." So he bought bologna and crackers and they tasted then better than the fried chicken and rolls mother had brought in a basket.

And on our way back to the family wagon I tried to express my appreciation and said: "You must be mighty rich, Tom," and the twinkle went out of Tom's eyes and he said: "No; but I would be if I had a little boy like you—who has a ma—like you have!"

But when he turned me over again to my father and mother and mother said: "I know that boy has been a whole lot of bother to you, Tom," Tom laughed and said: "No sire-ee mam! I ain't had as much fun since Hec was a pup."

That was years and years ago. Tom Torrence grew old and had lands and houses and bank stocks and bonds, and was a bank president, and died. Men said he was too stingy to marry and keep a wife. But I know better.

RAIN SAVED THE DAY FOR DIXON

LOCAL STARS WERE PERILOUSLY CLOSE TO TRIMMING AT MORRISON.

LEE CENTER WALLOPED DIXON CARDINALS.

Score Was 4 to 1—Dixon Browns Idle Yesterday—Local Youngsters Won at Sublette Yesterday, by a Score of 5 to 2.

Yesterday's storm, while accomplishing great damage in some sections of the surrounding country, was not without its compensating features, for it saved the Dixon Stars from an apparent trimming at Morrison, where they went yesterday to take on the Independents.

The Stars had an off day in their hitting department and Huber proceeded, as soon as the game started, to get all of the wildness out of his system, said wildness resulting in Morrison having 7 runs in the first of the fifth inning, while Dixon's side of the score board was absolutely untarnished with anything but circles—meaning, dear Beatrice, that Dixon had not scored. Then the big storm broke with exceptional talent, stopping the proceedings before the necessary five innings, which would have constituted a game, were played. Verily, 'tis well.

Cardinals Trimmed Again.

The Cardinals took another beating yesterday at Lee Center when the ball tossers of that vicinity administered a 4 to 1 defeat. The game was featureless in every way.

Nelson Won First.

Nelson's Colts, formerly the Hillsiders, journeyed to Sublette yesterday, resplendent in the new uniforms which Robert Nelson had purchased for them, and showed the Sublette boys that they could play ball up to the standard of the new suits, by taking the game, 5 to 2.

Browns Were Idle.

The Browns were the only Dixon team that didn't work yesterday, the disbanding of the Forreston team resulted in the calling off of yesterday's game between the two at Forreston.

Marengo Woman Shoots at Bartender for Violating Blacklist

Marengo, June 29—Mrs. Mike Nihan sought summary punishment for John Sheehan a bartender at the Channing saloon charging him with selling liquor to her blacklisted husband, and she fired two shots from a revovler at him. None took effect. She was taken out of the saloon by two men and later was arrested on a warrant sworn out by Sheehan. She wept hysterically. She was taken to Woodstock where it is said he had no trouble in securing W. C. T. U.

Although Nihan is on the blacklist placed there by his wife, it is said he had no trouble in securing liquor. Her suspicion was directed toward Sheehan. She went to the saloon with a 32 calibre revovler, but her aim was poor and both bullets went over Shee han's head.

Chinese Wife "Alla Samee 'Melican"

NEW YORK.—Quon Shee Fee, fair as the golden lily of the Hoang-Ho, dainty as the purple plum that ripens under tea house eaves at Canton, has skipped from her golden nest at 9 Pell street, and there remain to mourn her Lou Fee, her lord, Mouchock, her white poodle, and Tee-lee, the yellow canary by the window.

Quon Shee Fee flew into a rage the other night, hurled her husband's supper out of the window, beat her husband's cousin, Lou Pon, over the head with a heavy fan, and then went out into the dark of Pell street to lose herself from the sight of her outraged lord and master. All Chinatown hummed for days with the scandal.

"She make-ee d-suffiagette business alla-time," was the way Lou Pon, the abused cousin, explained the flight of Quon Shee Fee. Mournfully rubbing the bump on his head where the vigorous fan had whacked him, Cousin Lou developed his theory of what had ailed the winsome wife of Lou Fee.

"Alla-time she mak-ee lead-um 'bout de-suffiagette. Alla-time tink-um 'bout fool woman lite business. Woman alla-samee husband, she say. Woman got fo' have good time likee husband—got fo' stlay out noght—got fo' makee de-good time. Woman no stlay home, she say."

And there you have it—the suffragette invasion of Chinatown.

Lou Fee, who is more prosperous than the average of his fellows, through the profitable tea business that he conducts at 9 Pell street, began to hear faint rumbles of trouble the other morning, so he told Lieutenant Burke of the Elizabeth street station. He had been out playing dominoes the night before and had not come home until after midnight. When he did sneak into his cozy flat over the store, his little Plum Blossom was sitting up with fire in her eye, just as a regular white wife would do, may be.

There had been a fine row; this much Lou Fee admitted. His spouse had declared flatly that if he was going to stay out all hours of the night playing dominoes or fan-tan with the other Four Brothers boys, he need not expect to find a wife waiting for him at home.

But Lou Fee, who is high in the councils of the Four Brothers, the implacable enemies of the On Leong Tong, told his wife very properly—by Chinese standards, at least—to keep her mouth shut. He would stay out as late as he pleased. So yesterday when dinner time, at 7 o'clock, the lord of this suffragette spitfire was not at home to partake of his evening shark's fin.

But Cousin Lou Pon was and he got what was designed for the husband.

Jelly Juggler Puts Coppers to Rout

CLEVELAND, O.—The "Battle of Fort Jelly" just now is the talk of the North side.

With officers in front of him, officers behind him, and officers circling all around him, Frank Eingang, whose home is thought to be at 165 Grant street, hurled jars of jelly and other canned condiments at his assailants the other day. The latter were trying to capture his fort, which consisted of the cellar of the residence of Mrs. Henry W. Oliver, at 845 Ridge avenue, Northside. None of the members of the family was at home, as the summer home at Sewickley has been opened.

Sergeant of Police James Rea and Wagonmen James Sherry and Philip Mall were the besiegers of "Jelly Fort." Before they captured its lone defender they had dodged dozens of jars of delicious sweets, which the besieged hurled with such unerring aim that they were forced to retreat and hold a council of war before they made their final sally.

Eingang entered the cellar through a window which he smashed with a brick. Before entering he relieved himself of all his garments. Neighbors telephoned the police. In a few minutes the battle was on. First one policeman and then another, in their advance on the besieged, felt missiles whiz past their heads and smash with a juicy crash against the wall. Try as they might, they could not reach the jelly javelin thrower.

After an inglorious retreat and a palaver as to the best means of obtaining the surrender of the fort they returned to the attack, only to be met with a different defense. Eingang had discarded his jelly jars and assumed a mallet. This he swung about his head. When his attention was attracted by revolver shots the three officers pounced upon him. Wagonman Mall's thumb was seized by the teeth of the infuriated man and almost bitten off. When Eingang finally was bound tightly and taken to the patrol wagon it was found that Sergeant Rea's hand also had been cut by flying glass.

Get More Milk by Serenading Cows

SPOKANE.—Practical dairymen and veterinarians and animal psychologists in the Spokane district and throughout eastern Washington are agreed that the theory advanced by Josiah Grant of Wisconsin to increase the milk supply by the introduction of dreamy waltz music in the cow stables is reasonably logical and worthy of serious consideration.

Mrs. Joseph Rudersdorf, acting president of the Spokane Humane society, is confident the theory is correct, saying: "Music affects and soothes every animal or human being. Loud music would cause an animal to be nervous, while soft music, which would soothe the nerves of the cow, would naturally increase the milk production."

Dr. Otto Minig of the veterinary staff of the State of Washington college, who conducted experiments along similar lines while preparing a work on animal psychology, said the man who ridiculed the Grant idea is merely betraying his ignorance.

"That idea is not to be treated lightly," said Dr. Minig. "Anything that soothes the nerves aids in the milk production. Cows, as other animals, are attracted or repelled by sounds. To use cusswords with your cows lessens the milk production. I do not question that soft music would have the desired effect in increasing the supply."

Dr. Walter Baker, also a member of the staff, recalled an experiment where a dog secretes more saliva while eating as music is being played, and indorses the plan.

"I am inclined to think there may be more than a grain of truth in the reasoning, but I would not want Sousa with his brass band to amuse my cows. I believe violin music would get better results. In other words, I would prefer Kubelik to Sousa to entertain our cows at milking time."

Lambs Are Slaughtered as Sacrifice

TOLEDO, O.—When a number of East side residents saw several men and women gathered about some bleating lambs they held before them, they thought little of it. But when they suddenly saw one of the men insert a knife in the neck of a lamb they were amazed. They crowded closer and saw these same men hold the dying lamb while men and women stood about reverently, muttering sounds taken to be prayers.

All this appeared strange to those who watched, and one of them, who was angered at the slaughter of the lambs on the open lot in the residential district, called the police.

When the motor cops arrived they found the watchers of the lambs surrounded by many other residents of the East side. The man who slaughtered the first lamb cut the throat of another. The live lambs stood near by.

The police learned that the lambs were being slaughtered by a number of Bulgarians, members of the Greek Catholic church, who had begun the observance of the feast of spring. The proper observance of this custom, it was learned, was for the sacrifice of four lambs annually. After the lambs were killed the carcasses were piled upon a fire and roasted, the meat of which was devoured by members of the church as fulfilling their part of the sacrifice.

After the slaughter of the second lamb the remaining two were taken to a vacant house near by, where they met the fate of the others. These also were roasted upon the fire in the vacant lot.

CONVENTION COMES TO END

Eighth District Christian Meet Closes in Elkville With Election of Officers—Marion Man Chosen Head.

Duquoin, July 1.—The annual convention of the Eighth District Christian Missionary society, which has been in session at Elkville, closed with the election of officers, which resulted as follows: President, Rev. John I. Gunn of Marion; vice-president, Rev. Theodore F. Hall of Benton; secretary, Rev. John B. Dixon of Herrin. The place for holding the next convention has not been selected. In addition to the usual recommendations, the assembly adopted a new method of ministerial enrollment, looking toward a clean ministry. Under the new system every minister must be approved by his congregation each year before his name can be entered on the disciples' year book.

Zion Dedicates Big Organ.

Zion City, July 1.—A new pipe organ, one of the largest in the world, which has just been installed in the tabernacle here, at the direction of Overseer Wilbur Glenn Voliva, was dedicated. Students from the University of Chicago, Northwestern university and Lake Forest college and officers from the United States naval training station at North Chicago, were among the invited guests. The organ has 5,124 pipes, susceptible to 219 combinations and consists of a main organ and two echo organs, the largest of which has twenty chimes. The main organ is 40 feet wide, 30 feet high and 20 feet deep. Factional differences were suspended during the dedicatory ceremonies and Zion City residents, regardless of religious belief, attended.

Fish Worms Legal Tender.

Mount Carmel, July 1.—Fish bait at present is one of the scarcest commodities to be found in this city and vicinity and fishermen are most numerous. As a result many of the small boys are working overtime digging worms for a lively market. Everett Deffindall, a barber, however, has outwitted them all in the matter of obtaining worms. He made a contract with a farmer near the city, on whose place worms grow big and thick, to give him a shave for each can of worms he got. The plan has worked handsomely, the farmer coming into town regularly to get his shave, with a can of wigglers.

$7,000 Sought in Ground.

Bloomington, July 1.—Search is being instituted for $7,000 believed to have been buried on the farm of Miss Teresa Schultz of Hanna City, who was found to be insane and sent to the asylum at Watertown. The sum of $1,454 was found in a satchel and other sums brought the amount accounted for up to $3,000. She is known to have had $10,000.

Advises the Epworth League.

Centralia, July 1.—Dr. Wilbur F. Sheridan, secretary of the national cabinet of the Epworth League, delivered an address before the twelfth biennial convention of the state Epworth League. He spoke on "the struggle in life for others, or the sacrificial life." Springfield and Peoria are bidding for the convention in 1914.

Girl Hurt by Firecracker.

Elgin, July 1.—Premature celebration of the Fourth of July claimed its first victim in Elgin. Miss Hattie Peterson, nineteen years old, had her right hand lacerated by a cannon cracker. After lighting the cracker she swung it around her head, intending to throw it into the air, but it exploded before she let go.

Slayer Freed at Inquest.

Carlyle, July 1.—The coroner's jury returned a verdict that Charles Hahn Jr., secretary of the Carlyle Milling company, was justified in shooting Thomas Thalls, who died as the result of being shot in the foot.

Fatally Hurt in Runaway.

Paris, July 1.—J. E. Pinnell, age fifty-eight, one of the wealthy farmers of Edgar county, died on the operating table as the result of injuries suffered in a runaway accident. A widow and three children survive.

University Offers Chair to Pastor.

Duquoin, July 1.—Rev. Charles E. Smith, pastor of the Main Street Christian church of this city, has been tendered the chair of English literature in the Puget Sound university at Tacoma, Wash.

Asks $100,000 for Two Legs.

Charleston, July 1.—Frederick Yonke has filed suit for $100,000 damages against the Big Four Railroad company. Yonke asserts a cut of cars ran over his legs, amputating both.

Prohibition Convention July 10-12.

Chicago, July 1.—The eleventh presidential convention of the national prohibition party will be held at Atlantic City, N. J., July 10, 11 and 12.

Harvesting Wheat at Grayville.

Grayville, July 1.—Wheat harvest is in progress in this vicinity. The yield will be light this year.

IN ANOTHER KEY

Not Annoyed.

The man had opened a small factory in a residence neighborhood. He wanted to stand well with his neighbors, and after he had been there a few weeks he called on the nearest one.

"I hope my steam whistle doesn't annoy you."

"Hey?"

"I say I hope my factory whistle doesn't disturb you. I suppose you have noticed the noise."

"Why, yes; I have noticed the noise," responded his neighbor. "But I'm a trifle deaf, and I supposed it was the early robins."

Easily Accounted For.

"I thought your wife was enthusiastic for woman suffrage?"

"She was for awhile."

"Why has she changed her mind? I heard her say last night that she thought women were silly to want to vote."

"Well, you see, I've recently come out pretty strong in favor of votes for women."

Nothing Doing.

The wayfarer asked for old clothes.

"I have none," said the head of the house.

"Not even an old pair of shoes?"

"No; but here is an old automobile you may have."

"Thanks, boss, but I have enough trouble supplying my own wants, without begging gasoline from door to door."

Discipline.

"How was it the man who set himself on fire with his cigar in the trolley car got off so easily"

"Merely a matter of regulation rules. There is no smoking allowed on that car, so the conductor put him out."

SIX GOOD REASONS.

"Yessir, dere's six reasons why I'm in here."

"And what are they?"

"Me six wives, sir. I'm up for bigamy."

No Eye for Beauty.

It makes a fellow scowl, be sure,
And wrinkle up his face
To have the fairest girl obscure
His view of second place.

The Limit.

"Miss Pry is the most inquisitive sort of a girl. There is nothing doing but she manages to have her finger in it."

"I notice she hasn't got her finger in an engagement ring yet."

Desperate.

"I believe Mr. Blank will propose to our Edith tonight."

"What makes you think that?"

"I noticed when he came in he had a sort of desperate look."—Meggendorfer Blaetter.

Objectionable Hospitality.

"Uncle Cyrus, when you come to town I want to put you up under my own roof."

"Well, I ain't a-going in any attic room for nobody, I can tell you right now."

A Friend's Advice.

"A college has offered me a degree for a donation of a million."

"What's the use? Buy yourself a hundred dollars' worth of funny clothes and save the rest of the coin."

Honor Where Honor Is Due.

Mistress—Bridget, do you spoil every piece of meat you cook?

Maud—Oh, no, mum. Sometimes it comes bad from the butcher's.—Harper's Bazar.

A Doughty Youth.

"I understand your boy is leading his class at college."

"He is, sir, and they have already whipped the town police in six battles."

Game for Two

Now, as he entered the parlor he gave the impression of a young gentleman whose hands were empty, and no matter how he was viewed the gaze flew back to the emptiness of his hands. Oh, most unmistakably empty were his hands, and absolutely innocent of either candy or flowers. Most consciously empty, too, they were, blushing a dull red as they hung by their thumbs from his waistcoat pockets in a sheepish sort of way, hanging in shame, as it were, and yet with a sort of sullen bravado, as though saying:

"Well, what of it?"

Yes, even thus our hero entered the parlor and said:

"Hello!"

And as his salutation is subdued into silence, let us look at the lady in the case and see whether the eye of circumspection can come to rest on a matter so mobile. Plump and cozy and divinely short was the lady in question, with a pert, quick manner of movement and eyes that were alternately bright with speculation or brighter yet with conviction.

"How late you are!"

"Yes," said he, "I made up my mind that, beginning with the new year, I was going to work hard, and that's what kept me."

"Gracious!" said she, and again she looked at the emptiness and the sheepishness of his hands.

"I—I didn't bring any flowers tonight," he said. "I'd been thinking it over, and it seemed such a—such a—such a—such a—that, anyway, I swore off."

"My!" said she, and swinging her foot, she asked, in a careless manner: "Did you swear anything else off, John?"

"Well," he said, avoiding her eye, "candy."

And brighter grew her glance.

"And concerts," he continued, his voice dropping a note and hanging over the edge of the tragics.

And even brighter grew her glance.

"And all sorts of shows," he concluded, far, far down the keyboard.

"My!" said she. "You were busy!"

"Yes," he said, trying to look at her in a significant manner. "And now I'll be able to save a little money and then—"

"Flowers," she said, raising one finger.

He nodded.

"Candy," she said, raising another.

He nodded again.

"Concerts."

Again he nodded.

"And all sorts of shows," she concluded.

And, nodding again, he drew a long breath and made room for her on the sofa, saying:

"Grace!"

"No," she mournfully made answer. "I've sworn off."

"Sworn off what?"

"Sitting on the sofa like you meant. I made up my mind that beginning with the new year, I was keeping you away from your work too much. So, I just swore off." And, shaking her head, she sighed: "No. No more, John."

Whereupon he went over to her with considerable velocity of locomotion, holding out his hand and crying with emotion:

"Grace!"

"No," she murmured, putting her hands behiud her and shaking her head. "I've sworn that off, too, John!"

"Sworn what off?" demanded John.

"Holding hands," she murmured again.

"You have, have you?"

"Oh, dear, yes!" And still keeping her hands behind her, she looked up at him and pleasantly remarked "What a beautiful day it has been, John!"

But as for John, he marched out into the hall, jammed his hat on his head, and laid violent hands upon his coat. She followed him.

"Goodby!" he muttered.

"Goodby, John," she pleasantly answered him.

Goodby forever!" he said, punishing his coat.

"Oh, that's such a long time!" she said.

"So it's all over between us!" he scowled, turning up his coat collar and looking ferocious.

And as for John, John slammed the door open, passed out into the vestibule and banged the door behind him. From the hall inside she pleasantly waved her hand at him and turning to annihilate her with an awful look his eyes fell upon the solitaire that gleamed from one of her fingers.

"Here, I want my ring back!" he pantomimed to her through the glass of the door.

To which she pleasantly pantomimed back:

"I've sworn off giving rings back, John."

And pleasantly drew down the blind.

And as for John, John sat down on the top step buried in thought, from which he emerged at last, saying to himself:

"I wonder if I'd better get some flowers and candy and come right back or telephone her in the morning that I'll call for her tomorrow night and take her to a show?"

And as a certain picture arose before him of two persons sitting on a sofa, eating candy together, he hurriedly turned his steps to the candy shop and hurriedly muttered:

"I guess I'd better come right back!"

NO DOUBT OF HER IDENTITY

Spirit of Woman Who Died in Automobile Accident Easily Recognized by Friend.

"There's a spirit here," gasped one of the speakers at a Spiritualistic meeting, "who seems to be very much oppressed in her breathing. She—she died in an accident—much oppressed in her breathing. It was," she continued, gazing intently into space and clutching her chest, "a—an automobile accident. Does any one here know any one who was in a fatal automobile accident?" she asked suddenly, glancing about the hall.

"I do," from a woman in the audience.

"The wheels of the automobile went over her chest," went on the medium graphically, "broke her ribs, caused oppression in her breathing. Anyway, I see her dying in an automobile accident!"

"Yes—yes!" cried the woman eagerly, "that's Mrs. Autoway! I knew it! She was in an automobile accident! At least, that is," she explained, "she was run over by a grocery wagon, but she was took to the hospital in an automobile. She got well of that and died of typhoid fever. But you come near enough to it to prove her identity."

FATHER HAS HIS REVENGE

Strikes at Sire Through Son and Gives His Expensive Daughter to Algernon.

"Sir," said Algernon, "I—I am—I mean I was going to—"

"Oh!" snapped her father. "So you were going to ask if you might marry my daughter—eh?"

There was anger and venom in his tone and Algernon looked round nervously.

"Remember, sir, that I—I—"

"Listen!" broke in her father with a snarl. "Twenty years ago your father practically ruined me. I swore a vow that I would take vengeance. And now the chance I have longed for is come!"

"But, sir," quavered Algernon, "be merciful—"

"I will not!" thundered the old man. "I will have no mercy! I will strike at the father through the son! You want my daughter? Well, then, take her—take her!"

White, and shaking with malevolent triumph, he sank in his chair, and Algernon crept out of the house with a dim foreboding at his heart—Tit-Bits.

Banque Franco-Japonaise.

Paris, July 1.—The financial as well as the diplomatic world will follow with the keenest interest the formation of a new institution called the Banque Franco-Japonaise, directly or indirectly as an outcome of the extraordinary "Chinese loan" negotiations. The bank is to have a capital of 25,000,000 francs ($5,000,000) and has very influential connection, both in France and Japan.

Solid As a Rock!

Handy Inner Anchoring Hoop

Here is the absolutely new anchoring device used only on the old reliable Saginaw Silo, which makes it as solid as one piece of granite—as immovable as a mountain. It is our Handy Inner Anchoring Hoop, which circles the inside of the silo above the silage and directly opposite the top outside hoop. It supports any stave that might loosen and prevents them falling inward. Once in place, it needs no attention, no adjusting. Cables from anchoring points to ground rods complete support that dynamite could hardly move. No loose staves! No falling in! No blowing down! Write today for details. FINAL SPEGIAL ASSESSMENT NOTICE.

Public notice is hereby given that the Board of Local Improvements of the City of Dixon, County of Lee and State of Illinois, caused to be filed in the County Court of said County, on the 25th day of June, A. D. 1912, certificate of final cost of constructing concrete curbing and macadam street pavement on East McKinney Street from the east line of North Crawford Avenue to the west line of North Jefferson Avenue, constructed in said City of Dixon under and in pursuance of City of Dixon Local Improvement Ordinance Number 126, Series of 1911, and the amount estimated by said Board to meet accruing interest on bonds and vouchers issued to anticipate the collection of the assessment for said work. Said certificate also shows that said work has been done and completed by the Contractor doing the same in substantial conformity to the requirements of said ordinance, and has been duly accepted by said Board. The final cost of said improvement and the amount estimated for interest as shown by said estimate are as follows:

975 cubic yards of earth excavation and preparing subgrade at 35c per cubic yard	$341 25
1170 cubic yards of broken stone in place at $1.15 per cubic yard	1345 50
240 cubic yards of stone screenings in place at $1.15 per cubic yard	276 00
Flushing and rolling at $55.00	55 00
2372 lineal feet of concrete curbing at 30 cents per lineal foot	711 60
Fifteen driveway bumpers at $2.00 each	30 00
Two catch basins at $21.00 each	42 00
Total cost of work	$2801 35
Add 6 per cent lawful expenses	168 08
Add for lapsing interest on bonds	56 02
Total cost of improvement including interest	$3025 45

Public notice is further given that the court has set said certificate and any objections that may be filed thereto, for hearing at nine o'clock a. m. on Monday, the 15th day of July, A. D. 1912, or as soon thereafter as the business of the court will permit.

Said hearing will be held in the County Court Room in the Court House in the City of Dixon, County of Lee and State of Illinois.

All persons interested may file objections before said time set for hearing and appear and show cause why said petition should not be taken as true.

Dated June 25th, A. D. 1912.

Island of Walcheren.

It is quite worth while to stay a few days at Flushing, when landing from England, thoroughly to inspect the island of Walcheren. The island itself (says the "Autocar") is a most beautiful corner of Holland, possesses two important towns, well worth seeing, and is particularly rich in costume, unfortunately dying out in so many parts of the country. Some parts of Flushing are very old, as it was a strongly fortified port in days gone by—the headquarters of the Dutch fleet. It was from this town that Admiral de Ruyter, a native of Flushing, defeated the English fleet off the Thames in 1667, and advanced up the river toward London, creating a desperate panic among its inhabitants. The Dutch people are very proud of their admiral, and possess almost as many statues and pictures of him as we do of Nelson. The country is purely agricultural, and as the farmers go in for dairy farming a good deal, one sees numbers of spotlessly clean black and white cows everywhere, generally left in charge of a small boy, or two or three little girls in charming white caps, and quaint, much gathered black frocks.

Dixon Citizens Gladly Testify and Confidently Recommend Doan's Kidney Pills

It is testimony like the following that has placed Doan's Kidney Pills so far above competitors. When people right here at home raise their voice in praise there is no room left for doubt. Read the public statement of a Dixon citizen.

John Salzman, 103 Artesian Ave., Dixon, Ill., says: "I have no reason to change my good opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills, which I publicly expressed some years ago. I had backache a great deal and pains across my loins. My kidneys did not act regularly and I felt miserable in every way. Finally I used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Leake Bros. Co's Drug stoore and they did god work, relieving me. I keep them in the house and whenever I take them, they help me."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Houli Wins Grand Prix.

Paris, July 1.—The grand prix was run here before an immense crowd that included many notables, among them President Fallieres. Houli, owned by Achille Fould, won the race. Compte Le Marois' Wagram II. finished second; Mme. Cheremetoff's De Viris, third, and August Belmont's Amoureux III. ran fourth.

Birrell to Follow Bryce.

London, July 1.—It is rumored that Augustine Birrell, the new secretary for Ireland, will succeed Mr. Bryce as ambassador at Washington. No immediate change is anticipated, but the retirement of Ambassador Bryce on account of his advancing age is foreshadowed.

18th YEAR IN DIXON

DR. PRETTYMAN

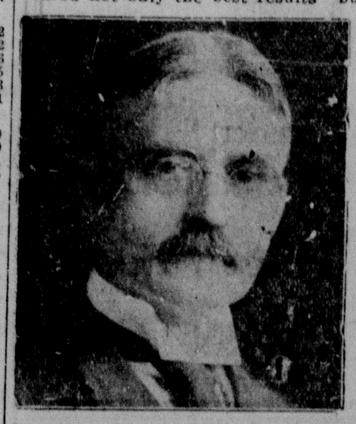

For over 17 years Dr. Prettyman has been coming to Dixon every four weeks. What he has accomplished in the time is a matter of history Suffice it to say, it has made him a reputation that no other specialist has ever attained nor can hope to attain in this vicinity.

His Work Speaks for Itself

The doctor keeps abreast of the times by devoting all his spare time to clinical work in the Chicago hospitals. He is not content to rest on laurels already won but he is on the alert for anything and every thing that will assist him in diagno-sis and treating the many cases that come before him. In 1909 he had special work in hospitals of London and Edinburg and is enthusiastic over the results attained.

You Can Depend Upon Him

Others can come and go but Dr. Prettyman continues his visits regularly and does as he agrees in every case. In employing him you are assured not only the best results but that he will be here for years to come
